End of Hopyard hazard?

A new traffic signal at Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive glows under overcast skies after traffic engineers turned the switch and current began flowing last Thursday. Complaints from the public, especially those who frequent nearby restaurants and encountered severly-congested traffic in the area, brought the signals into existence.

A restaurant near the tracks?

PLEASANTON — This city may be in store for a Victorian era restaurant along the lines of the Livermore and Walnut Creek railway station restaurants.

That was the word yesterday from a spokesperson forth for the Southern Pacific railroad, owners of the old rail depot on the SP tracks near Neal Street.

The current tenant of the building, Pleasanton Glass, will seek planning commission approval tomorrow night (Wednesday) to move his office into an old home at 4337 First Street, which would be remodeled. If Pleasanton Glass moves, SP would like to expand the railway station to its "highest and best use" and a restaurant would be the best, according to the SP spokesperson.

The SP property has been challenged by a law suit from the Harris Estate, successors to the orignal property owners. The estate said the deed to SP contained a reverisonary clause which said that if the property were not used for a railroad use for a certain number of years, it would revert back to the estate.

The SP spekesperson said yesterday that an "agreement in principle" has been reached between the two sides in which "there would be no question of any restrictions on the company's title." The agreement must be submitted to the judge in the case before there is any final decision.

Oakland attorney Victor Wagler, who represents the Harris estate, felt that the matter is not settled, but would not comment further.

The Pleasanton Glass request to move to First Street will come before the design review board for a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow and before the full planning commission at 8 p.m.

Trees uproot sidewalk problem

PLEASANTON — The city may require developers to install street trees but it doesn't have to pay for the damage those trees wreak on sidewalks.

That was the bad news yesterday for a city resident who complained to The Times that he has a buckling sidewalk, but no help from the city government.

The city, said Frank David of Northway Road, gave a little assistance a couple of years ago when he complained about the problem. A crew came out and cut some of the tree roots. That helped a little, but didn't solve the problem.

David was told subsequently by the staff that the responsibility for the sidewalk's condition rests with the homeowner, not the city.

David questions the fairness of the situation. The city required the developer to install the street trees; why shouldn't the city be required to pay for the damage they cause. And wasn't it contradictory to give help and later deny responsibility?

The question rings a bell locally. A few Livermore residents sued their city government a couple of years ago on the item. They lost.

The courts held that the street trees occupy an easement which is public property (usually about 10 feet in from the street), but the land is also on the homeowners' title and he or she is responsible for it.

Pleasanton Director of Public Works Field Services Arnold Eaton doesn't recall any assistance given to anyone on the street tree root problem. Apparently if help did appear, the city was just trying to help out, but not claiming any liability.

The city requires developers to install street trees according to a plan mapped out by the city, including the species of trees allowed. The trees in front of David's house, fruitless mulberries, are no longer on the permitted species list because they have shallow root systems, said Eaton. Shallow roots, of course, are more likely to pop up sidewalks than deep roots.

Another problem on Northway is the narrowness of the planter strip, said Eaton. Also, the sidewalk lies between the tree and the lawn. The tree roots, starved for water, make their way toward the lawn area. This has been corrected in some newer developments by putting the sidewalk next to the street so the trees are adjacent to the lawn areas, said Eaton.

Livermore has put sidewalks next to streets except on major thoroughfares since 1959, according to Public Works Director Dan Lee.

"When I came here a public works director I recognized that the trees adjacent to streets could cause quite a problem, so we changed it so the trees are next to the lawns. I live in Granada West, the first tract which had that change," said Lee.

Livermore City Attorney Robert Logan said that although sidewalks are on a public easement, the liability for accidents in most cases falls on the homeowner. "There have been a lot of trip and fall cases decided against a city on buckled sidewalks, but usually it's the homeowner. It depends on circumstances and the situation," said Logan.

Livermore police to request city to accept state grant

LIVERMORE — Members of the Livermore Police Association yesterday made known their plans to present a petition to the city council asking Livermore to accept an $80,000 grant from the State Office of Traffic Safety.

In return, the city must contribute $7,000 for the upcoming 1976-77 fiscal year and $31,000 for each year afterwards, according to City Manager Bill Parness' figures. Livermore Police Association President Bob Tette puts the city's first year contribution at $7,000 with an additional $19,000 to $20,000 for the years following.

All agree the grant for traffic enforcement would allow the police department to hire two uniformed traffic officers, a half time clerk, and two motorcycles.

The grant was scheduled to be considered at the council meeting last night. Although no recommendation was listed on the agenda, City Manager Parness said after the failure of the tax override measure last week he would recommend to the council the grant not be accepted because the city could not afford its share.

As Tette and the Police Association saw it, the failure of the tax override measure was all the more reason to accept the grant. "How can we afford not to take it," Tette asked.

The petition was signed by 50 police department personnel, Association members and non - members alike. The police also were expected to attend last night's council meeting when the grant was discussed.

The petition pointed out the council supported the tax override measure and noted the long hours and money put in by police, firefighters and citizens for passage of the measure.

"Ths voice of the citizens, at the polls, have determined the destiny of the public services in this city," the petition read. "Throughout our campaign we heard the cry, 'Realign your priorities, place police and fire first!' The city administration along with the police and fire chiefs have publicly stated how shorthanded we are. No citizen at anytime denied this when confronted with the facts," the petition continued. It pointed out Livermore will lose police officers when the federally-funded S.T.E.P. and Horizons programs end next year and made mention of the State Office of Traffic Safety grant.

"The problem on First Street on a Friday and Saturday night speaks for itself," the petition said. "The traffic, juvenile, and young adult pedestrian traffic is enough to tie up three units and officers who can't even stay on top of the activity, let alone control it."

Citing the money on the part of the city that would be involved and the officers and equipment to be gained, the petition emphasized that "the city cancelled the grant for lack of funding.

"Yet the city awards a contract in excess of $100,000 to construct two mini-parks in the downtown area. Now we ask you, 'Are your priorities in order?' Does the City of Livermore have the citizens of Livermore first and foremost at heart when it comes to public safety?"

Tette explained the police were not saying the parks should not be funded but wanted to point out the money for the police could be found somewhere.

Bulletin

LIVERMORE — The city council last night unanimously voted to accept the State's Traffic Safety Grant, as per the Livermore Police Association request.

Federal traffic consultant coming

PLEASANTON — An Office of Traffic Safety Grant worth $10,000 to $15,000 will come to the city soon, according to Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb.

Lamb told The Times he has had word from the federal government that the grant has been approved. The money will fund a traffic safety consultant who will work with a citizens' committee designed to probe the city's traffic safety needs.

The committee will be totally free from city staff input so it can make a completely independent assessment, said Lamb. If the committee recommends a list of needs to be met, Lamb hopes it also will recommend the framework in which they can be met.

The city has a traffic advisory committee, but it is comprised of staff members and an occasional visitor from the city council, said Lamb.

The committee also had a volunteer from the community, John Ames, but he resigned recently because he moved out of town. Ames was given a commendation by the committee before he resigned.

Pleasanton's history to be published

PLEASANTON — A "sneak preview" of this community's first-ever "Bicentennial Book" will be shared with a Tuesday luncheon gathering at the Pleasanton Hotel.

Callie Heinbaugh, who coordinated the massive community effort to prepare that book, will share the Chamber of Commerce program today with John Edmands, publisher of The Pleasanton Times. They will bring with them "stories and photos gathered about Pleasanton's past, many of which will not even appear in the Bicentennial Book because of space limitations."

That book is a major undertaking for the Bicentennial Committee and is due to go on a sale this summer. It will be the first publication of its kind in Pleasanton in 75 years.

The no-host chamber lunches are open to the public.

Tough race in Florida

MIAMI (AP) — Ronald Reagan sprinted across Florida on Monday, accusing President Ford of foreign policy inconsistencies and politically inspired economic decisions. Ford campaigned by long-distance telephone, urging his campaign workers not to ease their efforts on the eve of a "crucial and critical" presidential primary.

The Republican rivals agreed that today's race will be a close one — Reagan claimed that a narrow defeat would not be a serious setback to his quest for the White House.

That will be a hard case to prove, given the Reagan camp's early predictions of a landslide victory.

While Reagan jet-hopped from Miami to St. Petersburg to West Palm Beach and Jacksonville, three major Democratic contenders also were putting in their final bid for votes.

Georgia's Jimmy Carter said he would run ahead of Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson and, at the same time, deal at least a psychological defeat to Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Jackson said he already has stopped Wallace, whatever happens in Florida. He said Wallace is no more than a regional candidate now.

There are 2.4 million registered Democrats, about one million Republicans.

13½ baggies of suspected pot found after chase

PLEASANTON — Two 17-year-old Pleasanton youths arrested after a chase into the downtown Saturday afternoon were found to have 13½ baggies of suspected marijuana in their possession.

A homeowner on Foothill Road told police he noticed an unfamiliar car parked on his property and attempted to find the owner. As he was driving around, the car started up and drove away.

The homeowner followed the car south on Foothill Road and then north on Sunol Boulevard into Pleasanton, while keeping the police informed of his position on a citizens band radio. Police intercepted the car on Main Street near Stanley Boulevard and pulled it over.

While searching the suspects' car for possible stolen property, a brown paper bag containing 13½ baggies of suspected marijuana was discovered behind the driver's seat. Police also confiscated a tape deck which had its serial number removed.

The driver of the car was booked on suspicion of marijuana possession and possession for sale, possession of a valuable with its serial number removed, and trespassing. The other suspect was booked for suspicion of trespassing.

Juveniles admit to series of thefts and burglaries

PLEASANTON — Two juveniles arrested for attempting to break into a Weymouth Court garage Friday admitted committing other such acts, including the theft of Henry the Parrot from a local pet shop.

A witness told police she saw two youths enter a garage on Weymouth Court around 11 a.m. Friday. Police arrested the suspects after the witness positively identified them as the two who entered the garage earlier.

Under police questioning, the youths admitted they were looking for an unoccupied house to burglarize. The two suspects said they needed $30 to pay a pusher for three lids of marijuana they were given to sell.

Phoney food linked to hyperactive

(The following guest article was written by Joahann Keyser, a resident of Pleasanton and parent of a Murray School student)

Have you ever wondered why there are so many "hyperactive and learning disabled" children around today? Could this hyperactivity be created by our supermarket artificially - colored and artificially - flavored instant foods and beverages?

Yes! says a nationally - known local allergist and pediatrician, Dr. Benjamin Feingold. Dr. Feingold has studied the relationship between artificially - colored and flavored foods and hyperactive children and has come to the conclusion that many of our hyperactive and learning disabled children can be taken off drug therapy and permitted to lead normal lives at home and in school by changing their diet.

Being on a diet can help the hyperactive and learning disabled child to concentrate at home and at school and social and scholastic behavior shows remarkable improvement.

The majority of children who are true hyperactive or learning disabled and under constant drug management seem to be willing to do almost anything to get "off the pills!"

Wouldn't it be better for our children to eliminate foods from their diet than to continue pushing amphetamines, who's exact action on behavior modification is not known?

Dr. Feingold's research first revolved around aspirin sensitive patients. The natural salicylates found in many fruits are closely related chemically to the synthetic flavor chemicals that are used to artificially flavor our supermarket foods. Dr. Feingold's diet eliminated not only the artificially - colored and flavored foods but the natural salicylate foods, also. As the child improves on the diet the natural salicylate may be returned slowly. However, the child who is sensitive to the artificial color and flavor chemicals may also be extremely sensitive to the natural salicylates.

An interested parent could check to see how many artificial - flavored and colored foods her child puts into his mouth— check off everything that contains artificial color or flavor. Keep a food diary for a few days— write down everything your child eats. You will be surprised at how many foods your child eats that could be causing his hyperactivity.

Two groups of food are eliminated by Dr. Feingold's diet:

1) All foods that contain artificial color and flavor.

2) Fruits and two vegetables containing natural salicylates: almonds, apples, apricots, blackberries, boysenberries, gooseberries, raspberries, strawberries, cherries, grapes, raisins, nectarines, oranges (note: grapefruit, lemon and lime are permitted), peaches, plums, prunes, tomatoes, and cucumbers.

The diet must be adherred to 100 per cent.

It is important to remember that often a single bite or a single drink can cause an undesirable response which may persist for 72 hours or more.

On the average, a good response will be observed within 7 to 21 days.

Having a child on this diet and free from medication is worth all the extra time it takes to prepare home - baked cookies, cake and candy. Having a child who now is able to control his behavior, who now can at last succeed in school and behave at home and away from home like any other child is the greatest feeling in the world.

For more information regarding Dr. Feingold's diet, contact the Murray School nurse, Mrs. Uphouse, your child's teacher, your pediatrician or allergy specialist or ask your child (if he is in an EH class at Murray, he probably has a classmate already on the diet).

Dr. Feingold has written a book entitled "Why Your Child is Hyperactive" that is now available. On Wednesday, March 10, he will lecture at the University of California in Berkeley.

You're the egg.

We may never know which came first—the chicken or the egg.

But we do know, when it comes to more airline service at Oakland International, the egg has to come first. You're the egg.

The airlines these days are skittish about risking a buck. And you can't blame them. Many are losing money, what with high costs of fuel and double-digit inflation.

They say, if the East Bay wants more service at Oakland International, we should fill up the airplanes we've got. Pretty tough to do when the schedules aren't frequent enough or they stop along the way between Oakland and many important cities. We have to stop in Chicago on the way to New York, or change planes to get to Washington. It makes us eggs fry.

But once you've tried it, you'll find it isn't all that bad. Going to New York, we can land at LaGuardia, which is closer to Manhattan. And changing planes to Washington puts you into National and saves you an hour's bus ride.

So back us up when we say the business is here. We'll help you get there, too. We publish a Flight Selector which shows you schedules to New York and Washington and cities throughout the United States and the world. There are scores of cities without direct service from any airport and Oakland's connections are among the best.

Now, if you'll give it a try, we'll give you a discount on parking. After four days, you pay only $9 for up to a week. At San Francisco, you'll pay at least $17.50 a week in the remote lots and $28 a week in the garage.

And to top it off, you don't have to guess which airline flies where you want to go and how you get there from Oakland International. Just call the Fly Oakland Desk for all the information you need and we'll make your reservations.

Be a good egg.

The secret to real beauty is

By LILLY AULT

"Not all women are beautiful, but all women can be attractive" believes Nick Thomas of Valley Beauty College in Livermore who addressed a group of women from the Valley Women's Club recently.

"Take stock of your assets and your liabilities," he advised the ladies. "Cover up your liabilities and expose your assets. Stand in front of a mirrow in the nude and take inventory of your body. Check your height, weight, hips, etc." he suggested. "Have a complete open mind in looking at yourself. Be critical. Above all 'To thine own self be true.' "

And that was Thomas' topic of discussion when he covered the areas of hair care, make-up and proper dress for women.

Thomas has been in the beauty business for 33 years. He is a member of California Hair Fashion Committee and has won 42 covenant awards in the industry. He has worked at Charles of the Ritz, Ransanoffs, Maiden Lane and other prominant locations in San Francrdco as well as top beauty salons from San Jose to Oakland to Lafayette, has been affiliated with beauty schools and has worked as a beauty aid in Walnut Creek.

"Women, fashion - wise, are going back to being women," Thomas said, "and men will be greatful for it."

"Decide what category you as an individual fit into. Establish a firm pattern. Believe in yourself as a women and be prone to change," stated Thomas. "If you are fat you can get thin. You just have to work at it. As a women, you will not only feel better, but will look more attractive slimmer. Fashions are primarily designed for the slim figure," Thomas informed the ladies.

"Don't ask you husband for his advice when shopping," Thomas remarked. "Most husbands have no concept of style. He may not want you to wear a particular style, but yet he will immediately look at the woman who is wearing that fashion." Speaking of spring fashion, Thomas told the ladies mini dresses are OUT, long dress for evening, hats, street dresses, coulotts, flowers and bows are IN. Pant suits will remain popular.

"For some women," Thomas said, "mini-skirts were never in fashion. Learn to wear clothes and colors which do the most for you as a person. If you have been in a rut wearing the same style for the last 10 years "do something drastic and change the set pattern of appearance."

When shopping for new items for the wardrobe, Thomas advised the women, "never buy anything you don't need and don't buy impulsively." He asked the young crowd to recall a time when perhaps they purchased a new dress or outfit which afterward hung in the closet, worn once or never and finally discarded because the garment wasn't particularly liked.

"Try to establish the habit of making a list of what you want to buy and stick to it," he said "Buy only what you look good in and be honest with yourself when analyzing the image in the mirror."

On the subject of make-up, Thomas believes "Beauty is illusion."

The perfectly shaped face is the oval or egg shape face, according to Thomas. If a person does not possess this shape face, the "illusion" has to be created by proper application of make-up.

Thomas related that 98 percent of women wear some form of make-up, but only seven and one half percent apply it properly. It is best, in Thomas' opinion, for women to consult an authority on what type of cosmetic is best suited for their skin type, age and coloring. "If you are shopping for make-up," Thomas told the ladies, "take a good look at the person selling the merchandise. If she does not look attractive in the make-up she is wearing, obviously she will not be of much help to you."

Today's look the expert concludes from his findins in attending a seminar for sprlng fashions is light pale shades. Rouges are no longer the pinks and reds, but oranges, beige, bronze shades that are more natural colors in blending with skin tones. Lipsticks are light ping shades for the blondes and fair complexed people and the beige, orange, bronze tones and soft reds for darker complexions and hair. The high cheek bone look is in. This requires proper application of rouge to aquire the effect. Eye shadow should no longer be just one color. Colors may be blended together or lighter shades used above and darker shades below in order to create the illusion desired.

'To thine own self be true'

The basis of all good make-up according to Thomas is starting with a clean skin. "Skin can be oily or dry or both," he said. "The face should be washed with water and soap. A lubricant can be used following a good cleansing." A pure vegetable oil was suggested by Thomas as an "excellent" lubrication. The face should be washed well at night and lubricants applied. "Night is when the face breathes," said Thomas.

Today's "face" look is for youth, Thomas informed those in attendance. "A shiny look is a youthful look; a matted powdered look is an old look," he said.

Eyelashes are in, according to Thomas. "That does not mean that eyelashes should look artifical. They should appear as though they grow out of the head and be basically the same color as your own lashes."

Everyone likes a nice tan which gives a good healthy look," Thomas told the women, "but excessive exposure to the sun will cause skin cancer. Tan in stages. On a hot day, no more than 10 minutes per day with oils and then increasing exposure five minutes per day until five days, then two hours exposure would be safe." He further advised the potential sun absorbers to stay away from "instant" tans as they are a dye and are hard on the skin.

The new look for hair is shiny, healthy, short, and "hair that is touchable." According to Thomas, a good hair cut is the answer to a good looking, easy care hair style. "Don't quibble over the price of the haircut. A few dollars can keep you from looking and feeling like a million."

The old tale of shampooing hair once a week is out," Thomas said. "Shampoo the hair often. With short hair it can be done daily and blown dry. Shampooing the hair stimulates and helps keep the oils flowing rather than drying out the hair as previously believed. Everyone should condition their hair as well as their skin."

For those who have to set their hair and do not like the many commercial sets available on the market, Thomas stated that using beer is excellent. It gives the hair body, (good for fine hair) and helps hold the set and does not have an odor.

In summing up his presentation Thomas stated," True beauty comes from within. If you can arouse about you that which is kind, nice, warm and affectionate — and then create the appearance — you become an unbeatable personality. How you make people around you feel in your presence is the answer to beauty."

March of Dimes walk expects 2,000

Clear the way through Livermore and Pleasanton this Saturday!

About 2,000 or more marchers will wend their way from the Fairgrounds in Pleasanton to Sunset Park in Livermore, and back again, in behalf of the March of Dimes.

The annual Walkathon kicks off between 8 and 9 a.m. at the Fairgrounds, where marchers will register and start their 20-mile trek.

Around noon, walkers will stop for a brown-bag lunch at Sunset Park. McDonald's hamburger chain will be handing out orange drinks for lunch and at two other stops as well.

Civic leaders and football stars Dan Conners and Leo Nomolini will lead the walk, along with appealing March of Dimes poster boy Alan Richardson. San Ramon Cub Scout Pack 814 and the Pleasanton Junior-ettes will also be marching.

A hundred adults from police departments, Civil Air Patrol, the Army reserves and Voice of the Valley radio club will keep the walk run smoothly and safely. Doctors from the Alameda - Contra Costa Podiatry Association will provide emergency foot care. Members of the Alameda County Sheriff's Department will drive "poop-out" vans for those who falter.

At the end of the day, the Sun, a rock group provided by Kaleidoscope of San Jose, and prize drawings by Mike Cleary of radio KNBR, will greet the walkers at the Fairgrounds.

If it rains, the route will be shortened to four miles and each mile walked will be computed as five in collecting the pledges.

Two thousand walkers braved wet weather last year and raised $25,730 for March of Dimes. This year, organizers are hoping for a sunny day and 3,000 marchers.

Sponsor sheets may be obtained at McDonald's in Livermore and Dublin, the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, Radio Station KKIQ in Livermore, or by calling 836-2267.

The Weekend Training Academy of Alameda County Probation Department will handle clean-up chores under the direction of Jack Hystad.

Pleasanton lists write-in candidates

PLEASANTON — Local election officials were kind enough to record a tally of those unsung heroes of any election, the write - in vote candidates, in the official election canvass last week.

These are usually the protest votes and in the case of Pleasanton it seems no exception. A total of 11 people were listed as having votes cast for them in the race for city treasurer in which incumbent John Wipfli ran unopposed.

Most of the names on the tally are unknown to the local press, for example, Vladimir Zwill, who received two votes in the Sanderling Court precinct, and Bill Aquair, who got a vote on Touriga Drive.

Others are better known, for example, PG&E representative John Stanley, who picked up his vote at Walnut Grove School, and Alameda County District Attorney investigator Manuel Avilla, who received his vote at the Laguna Vista Estates precinct.

Frank Brandes, who was elected to the city council in the election, also picked up two votes in the write - in votes in the city treasurer's race.

Brandes got his write - in votes in the Dickens Court precinct, which also had a voter who wanted to send Terry Grosshans to the city treasurer's job.

Other citizens written in for the city treasurer's position included Jack Ogden, mentioned on an absentee ballot; Al Newman, who picked up his vote on Black Avenue; Virginia Gorski, Tahoe Court; Ronald Froemming, Val Vista; and Edward McCauley, Walnut Grove.

Nancy Middleton was the lone write - in among the city council contestants, picking up her vote in the Corte Paloma precinct in Del Prado.

People often write in their own names or vote for a neighbor or respected community servant when protesting an unopposed incumbent. While some might be encouraged by their name appearing as write - in candidates, they have a long way to go before they achieve the late Dwight Eisenhower's feat of a tremendous write - in vote in the 1952 Nebraska Republican Party primary election. Eisenhower went on to be "drafted" by the party and the rest is history.

Budget hearing face Pleasanton council

PLEASANTON — Twenty committee assignments and a long schedule of budget hearings will face the new city council after two new representatives are sworn in with re - elected incumbent William Herlihy today.

Ken Mercer and Frank Brandes will be sworn in at 5 p.m. today in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela St., with Herlihy. They will join Council members Joyce LeClaire and Robert Philcox to select a mayor and vice - mayor.

They also will be informed about the 20 committees which require attendance from council members, ranging from ABAG to Zone 7. Specifically council members sit on the following committees: sewer and water committee, Livermore Amador Valley Water Management Agency, Congress of Valley Agencies, gravel committee, library committee, fair liaison committee, ABAG, Associated Community Action Program, finance and administration, and traffic safety.

The assignments also include liaison with the planning, park and recreation and human services commissions, housing authority board, Chamber of Commerce, Zone 7, Alameda County Mayors Conference, Leauge of California Cities, BART, and a solid waste interim council.

The new mayor, whoever he or she is, will meet individually with each council member to discuss assignments with him or her. Traditionally members are asked their preferences and assignments are made to follow desires as closely as possible.

Council members also will be kept busy with the schedule of budget review sessions set by the staff.

The first session will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, March 20, at the council chambers. There will be a general orientation to city operations given by department heads, who will include presentations about departmental programs, projects and problems. The orientation also will involve field inspections of various city facilities.

A budget overview examining the status of the current budget and the outlook for the next one will be presented Monday, March 22 as part of the council's regular agenda for the evening.

A more detailed review of this year's budget and the next one will occur Saturday, March 27, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and continue the following Monday, March 29, at a special meeting of the council. A third and final meeting on the detailed review will be held Monday, April 5.

The staff feels that the three meetings for detailed discussion of the budget will allow ample time for the council to dig into any item or items it feels needs airing. The staff is agreeable to changes in the above schedule if individual council members' schedules require it.

Youthful Violent Offender Act

Oakland mayor issues report

In a recent report to the people, Oakland Mayor John Reading gave his views on "The Constitutional Right to Personal Security."

The report comes as a followup to an emergency bill drafted by the County District Attorney's office, approved by the Alameda County Grand Jury and sent to the State Legislature for action.

Labeled The Youthful Violent Offender Act, it is currently in committee. One of the architects of the Act is George Nicholson, senior trial deputy and a resident of Dublin.

The bill was introduced by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, whose district spans Alameda and Santa Clara counties, and was officially introduced one month ago as AB 3001.

In making his report, Mayor Reading noted that "for 18 months prior to January of this year, the Alameda County District Attorney's office has been the lone, local governmental voice in active search of answers to this dilemma at the state level.

"During the past 12 months, members of the District Attorney's staff have wrestled with the issues involved, and as a result have drafted The Youthful Violent Offender Act."

Reading states that on Jan. 23 an Oakland newspaper printed an editorial in which this Act was decried as a "knee jerk reaction that all youths accused of violent crimes should be drawn and quartered or summarily thrown into the slammer."

According to Reading, such an accusation is "irresponsible, inflammatory and totally untrue. Furthermore," says Reading, "should this proposed Act become law, youthful offenders will enjoy more, not less, constitutional protection in criminal prosecutions.

"For example, in juvenile court, the right to a jury trial does not exist. A jury trial would be guaranteed to every 16 and 17 year old accused violent offender tried as an adult under this Act. In addition, this type of offender would be entitled to bail consideration, which right is not now extended to those incarcerated in juvenile institutions. Appelate rights would also be enhanced by the Act."

Reading says that the newspaper, in its editorial, also said "The effect of such a law would be to strip judges of their judicial choices and ability to treat cases individually." This statement is also untrue, says Reading.

"The Act preserves to judges all the procedures and options now available. It only requires them to state good cause for their decisions, and to place supporting reasons on the record.

"If the Act becomes law, a superior court judge could give suspended sentences, probationary sentences, and may still send youthful murderers of 85 year old women to boys' camp. The only additional requirement would be that the judge in such a case would have to publicly find good cause and support that finding with reasons stated on the record."

According to Reading, "a little history will dispell the argument that The Youthful Violent Offender Act was spawned by any individual case, or the individual actions of any judge or governmental agency.

The Alameda County Grand Jury declared, "No comment or criticism of actions by any judge, juvenile court referee, the Alameda County Probationary Department, or any other individual or local government agency is intended by the resolution's adoption. No comment on any pending case is intended or implied."

Reading goes on, in his report, to cite the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee as a "burial ground" for criminal justice reform legislation, stating that in the past three years approximately 54 bills which had previously passed the Senate were killed in the Assembly committee.

Reading concludes that "in our Bicentennial year, it is time for 'We The People' to reordain and reestablish control over governmental institutions, including the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee, and to return meaning to the constitutional right of personal security."

Two candidates for CC supervisor post

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — The fifth supervisorial district had two official candidates today, as new potential candidate also made himself known.

Earl MacIntyre, Pittsburg city councilman, filed his nomination papers Friday and Louise Giersch, Antioch mayor, filed hers this morning to become the first official candidates for the seat being vacated by Edmund Linscheid of Pittsburg.

Ms. Giersch provided for her filing fee by submitting more than the necessary 1,234 signatures this morning. She took out the nomination papers and had them signed on the spot by 30 supporters who had accompanied her to the county Elections Office.

MacIntyre was 62 signatures short of the total, so paid $15.50 of the $304 filing fee for the office.

Floyd Sims, Alamo businessman, became the third potential candidate to receive filing papers.

Sims, who unsuccessfully opposed Jerry Waldie for congress in 1972, paid the entire filing fee.

Other candidates who have taken out the filing fee in lieu papers but not nomination papers include Ronald Johnson, Frank Quesada, and Warren Smith of Pittsburg, while Eric Hasseltine has taken out but not returned his nomination papers.

Filing in the fifth district has been extended to March 17 because Linscheid is not running for re - election. Filing for most other June primary races ends Friday.

VCSD pool repaired

Repair work was finished yesterday on the Valley Community Swim Center pool. The schedule called for the pool to be filled last night, provided water lines passed a pressure test. It takes six hours to fill the pool, using fire hoses. Twelve hours after the pool is filled, officials will know whether cracks in the bottom of the pool which were filled with epoxy will hold. Repairs cost Valley Community Services District about $6000. (Times photo)

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South bid four spades rather cheerfully although he didn't really expect to make it. He rather hoped that East or West would take the push to five hearts, but everyone passed and the defense started out with two hearts and two clubs before shifting to a diamond.

South was on lead and had to pick up the queen of spades in order to hold the penalty to a mere 100 points.

The game was duplicate and South noted that minus 100 would be worth some match points since some East-West pairs would have been allowed to play at a heart partial and three hearts would be a surefire contract irrespective of how the spades divided. South noted further that if spades were 3-1 the four heart contract would have wheeled in, so South banged down his top spades, picked up the queen and was one down.

Suppose spades broke 3-1. Then South would have been minus 200, for down two, but East-West would have made their heart game, if allowed to play it.

Ask the Jacobys

An Arkansas reader wants to know what a Bath Coup is, and how it got its name.

This is a rather simple play. As declarer you hold ace-jack-small of a suit. The king is opened and you simply play low. If the suit is continued you have picked up a trick. If not, you have gained timing. It is supposed to have been first played in the English resort of Bath.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Cal no-hit in opener

CONCORD — California High School got yet another rude introduction to a varsity sport here yesterday afternoon as its baseball team was no-hit by a trio of De La Salle pitchers, 12-2.

John Gibbons, Leo Harrod and Tom Dowd each pitched two innings of hitless ball in the game, cut short an inning by darkness.

Cal scraped together runs in the first and fifth innings to avoid a shutout in its first - ever varsity game.

Larry Walters walked on four pitches to start the game and advanced to third when Roger Hurlow's one-out grounder slopped past Gibbons to shortstop Ken Lynch, who threw the ball away. An out later, Hurlow broke for second and when catcher Kevin Flaherty's throw was in the dirt, Walters scored on a fielder's choice.

In the fifth, first baseman Mike Daugherty walked with one away and got to third on a pair of succeeding free passes issued by Dowd. He scored when, on a dribbler by Hurlow, Dowd's throw went through the glove of substitute catcher Rob Kiloran.

But that was the extent of the Grizzly offense as they never got the ball out of the infield.

Harrod got the win for the Spartans, displaying the most effectiveness by getting six outs with only 15 pitches in the middle innings.

"We won't be this bad," offered Cal coach Bob Benatar. "We may not win a lot of games, but we'll be closer than this."

Inexperience, a lack of cohesiveness and, of course, hitting troubles appear to be the Grizzlies biggest stumbling blocks.

However, said Benatar, "We've got some good pitching in Brett and Chuck Cary. We need a third pitcher." Mike Daugherty, who nailed down the last two outs, could gain prominence as Cal's top reliever.

Five sophomores, two of whom started yesterday, adorn the Grizzly roster and each of Cal's three seniors has not played high school ball before, leaving the San Ramon school with a marked lack of seasoning.

"Right now we're doing a lot of experimenting — trying to find spots for people," Benatar added.

"We've got to get back to — what do they call it — the basic game," he concluded wryly.

Bats to surprise Mat foes?

It's too early to speculate about baseball championships when snow still flecks the Livermore foothills.

But when the weather heats up, it could be that Granada High will be in the thick of the EBAL pennant race. That's if some usually tepid bats also get hot, and a lot of inexperienced youngsters can keep their cool.

The Matadors, who are still trying to learn who plays where on the field, will be at Liberty High this afternoon for a 3:30 game.

In other pre-season action this afternoon, defending EBAL champion Livermore travels to Del Valle in Walnut Creek.

The Matadors are coming off a win over Pacific last Friday that was decided by first baseman Scott Trudeau's home run.

It was an encouraging sign for coach Dennis Berger, who has plenty of pitching. It just could be that for once he has the hitting to match it.

"The Pacific coach asked me where I got all the cannons from," Berger said yesterday. "I'd never heard anyone say something like that about our team before."

The Matadors are starting with a nucleus of three strong pitchers, veterans Steve Stone (expected to start this afternoon) and Tim Duke and junior varsity graduate Bob Parness.

The best news about Stone is that he already has six hits in one game and a couple of scrimmages.

Granada is not long on experience. In fact Stone and Duke are half of the returnees from last year's squad.

The others are shortstop Bill Jesperson and second baseman Dennis Lehew.

Everywhere else it's up to the youngsters. Trudeau may be the first baseman if he can supplant Duke, who doubles there when he's not pitching. Scott could also be the team's designated hitter under new rules this year.

Rusty Mueller may push the veteran Stone out at third base when he's not on the mound, which frees Stone to play left field.

"We're two deep at every position, and we're just trying to get our nine best hitters in the lineup," says Berger. As of yesterday, Berger still hadn't decided on this afternoon's starting lineup. There are question marks everywhere, he said. They are pleasing ones, though, because a lot of kids deserve to play. "I've never been in a position like this before," says Berger, beginning his third year as coach. "Usually by this time we're pretty well set for a lineup.

"Pitching will definitely be our strong point," he said. "We've got a 14-game league season, and no byes this year. So we're going to need at least two, and probably three starters. And I think our three are as strong as anybody's. I'll go with all three in every game if I have to," Berger said. "All three are strong kids. But right now I couldn't even hazard a guess as to who would start our first league game."

Amy gains quick 200

Dublin's Amy Schinnerer won her race by a fraction, but swam the fastest time in the country this year for 10-year old girls in the 200 freestyle at the Norcal Aquatics AA Meet in San Ramon last weekend.

Amy, just a month past her 10th birthday, posted a 2:11.45 in eclipsing Pleasant Hill's Alisa Arioldi by eight one hundredths of a second. Arioldi turns 11 next week.

The time for Schinnerer was at least four seconds faster than any other American 10-year old has posted this year.

It was the highlight of another strong showing for the Norcal team.

Besides her upset victory of Arioldi, Amy took a third in the 100 individual medley with a 1:16.7 time, a third in the 100 free at 1:04.64, and second in the 200 I.M. with a 2:38.94 clocking.

Norcal's Dana Davidson, the 11-year old sensation, failed again to qualify for the AAU Nationals in the slow California High School pool, but still sizzled by winning seven races. She'll enter the Southern California Invitational Meet this weekend in hopes of establishing National AAU qualifying marks.

Dana's victories last weekend included; 100 I.M. (1:04.92), 100 butterfly, (1:02.45), 200 free, (1:55.90), 500 free, (5:15.50), 50 fly, (28.82), 100 free (55.67 and the 200 IM, (2:20.65).

Sister Vicky Davidson captured the 100 backstroke for 11 and 12-year olds by swimming a 1:09.17. Vicky also had a third in the 200 free and 100 fly, and a second in the 100 IM.

New tactic in Blackhawk fight

By J. VANLANDINGHAM
Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Developers of Blackhawk Ranch could be preparing to box their opponents in a corner.

A new plan for the Danville project's first phase appears on the County Planning Commission's 7:30 p.m. agenda Tuesday in Martinez. It is the first item of business.

The modification presents a much less dense first phase of about 206 single family houses on 150 acres, with another 789 acres in open space, 569 of which would be dedicated to Mt. Diablo State Park once the first building permit is issued.

This is approximately half the density originally proposed for the development's first phase.

But what makes this plan different is that Blackhawk seeks to delete 943 acres from the planned unit development (PUD) zoning allowed in 1974 and rezone them as an independent PUD.

The application also seeks to delete the conditions of the 1974 zoning approval as they relate to the 943 acres in Phase One.

No recommendations are being advanced by the planning staff, which says Tuesday's hearing will focus on the merits of the plan and the adequacy of the environmental impact report.

After the hearing closes, the staff will respond to the comments and make recommendations on the application.

Blackhawk's 1974 zoning approval as a PUD was challenged unsuccessfully in Superior Court and is expected to go up on appeal.

However, if the latest application is approved, it could make the appeal moot. It is conceivable Blackhawk's developers might ultimately delete the entire project from the 1974 PUD and rezone as a new PUD.

Such a zoning action would be referendable. But it is doubtful any referendum would be launched in view of Blackhawk's libel and elections practices suit filed against two of its chief critics, because many of the same anti-Blackhawk arguments would have to be employed.

Ten year light bulb developed?

Donald D. Hollister has a bright idea — he invented a new light bulb that can last a decade and use 70 per cent less energy than conventional bulbs.

The new light bulb will be developed over the next year under an Energy Research and Development Administration contract with Lighting Technology Corporation, a small company in Fullerton of which Hollister is president.

The fluorescent "Litek" bulb resembles a 100 watt incandescent bulb, fits standard sockets, and produces a warm light similar to the familiar in incandescent bulb.

It can last several years, possibly a decade or more, because it contains no wire filaments that can burn out.

An ERDA spokesperson said that preliminary studies indicated nationwide use of the "Litek" bulb could save the equivalent of 500,000 barrels of oil per day.

Incandescent lighting costs Americans more than $6 billion annually. The "Litek" bulb would reduce energy consumption by 70 per cent, compared to the standard light bulb.

THESE PEOPLE GET WELL

A sixty-six year-old retired accountant came to our offices complaining of dizzy spells. He had fallen two years prior and ever since the spells became progressively worse. Our examination revealed nerve pressure in his neck. Spinal manipulation to realign his neck was administered and at last report the condition had ceased to exist.

BACKACHE

This case report states that a 36-year-old lady, after having severe backaches, pains in both legs, constipation, and loss of sleep for 4 years, came to our office in extreme depression. Our examination and analysis revealed spinal distortion and pinched nerves as the cause of her problems. When our recommended period of correction had ended, our comparative examination showed that she had no backaches or leg pains, constipation had been eliminated and she was now sleeping all night.

WHIPLASH INJURY

A 20-year-old college student rear-ended in an automobile accident complained of severe headaches and pains in his neck. He experienced ringing in his ears, blurred vision, and nervous tension. The injury had misplaced vertabrae, creating pressure on spinal nerves. The proper spinal analysis and corrections were made, and gradually all of his symptoms faded away. If you have a problem, and have not found lasting relief, perhaps we can be of service to you. Call us for an appointment. 447-8800, 2602 First St., Livermore.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

New 9 mg. tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'™ proves taste no longer depends on amount of tar.

Until today, cigarette flavor pretty much depended on the amount of tar that went along with it.

Regardless of "low tar, good taste" claims, regardless of fancy-filters and "space-age" filtering systems—you couldn't get high taste without high tar.

Nor.low tar without low taste.

That was the theory.

Until today.

By isolating certain "key" ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have developed an 'Enriched Flavor' process so successful at boosting flavor, the resulting cigarette actually delivers as much—or more—taste than brands having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

The cigarette is 9 mg. tar MERIT. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

If you smoke—you'll be interested.

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar cigarette brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly, too, delivering as much—or more—taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Unprecedented flavor at 9 mg. tar.
